The Grand Army Club of the District of Columbia had a campfire and banquet at Willard's Hotel Saturday evening, with Gov. D. M. Clough and staff of Minnesota and the survivors of the 1st Minnesota Infantry, and Frank Eddy, an eloquent representative of the Mirresota press, as special guests. All were introduced in succession by the governor's private secretary, Col. Roland H. Hartley.

Much patriotic enthusiasm was occasion ed by the addresses of Mr. Eddy, Colonel Meade, Major S. S. McKinley, Col. L. W. Campbell, Col. L. B. Crook, Past National Commander Ray, W. T. Gassaway, S. L. Frazier and others.

Frazier and others.

The guests were given a soldier's welcome, prefaced by formal greetings by President Dinsmore, Department Commander Hopkins and A. A. G. Hendricks. By a rising vote the Minnesota guests were elected honorary members of the club. Music and refreshments were interspersed. The following were formally elected to active membership: Capt. The club decided to continue regular meetings during the heated term.

HONORS TO THEIR FIREMEN

Installation of Company No. 12 in Its New

Addresses and Fireworks

Quarters. Citizens of Eckington and Vicinity

The Fourth of July was made to do duty in a double capacity by the residents in Eckington and Bloomingdale. Besides the ustomary celebration of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, they provided an elaborate series of festivities to mark the installation of the new fire engine company in its handsome quarters at the corner of North Capitol and Quincy streets, there being a presentation by the citizens to the company of a set of colors to float over its new home. The occasion was made memorable by patriotic speeches, and an elaborate display of fireworks, a band of ten pieces dispensing music during the evening. There was a large concourse of people to witness the celebration.

Early yesterday the residents in the neighborhood of the engine house provided refreshments for the fire laddles, to make the heat of the day make the heat of the day make the learning to the learning the learning to the learning he heat of the day more bearable, and at 7 o'clock they gathered in large numbers to witness the ceremonies which had been arranged for. A platform for speakers had been constructed alongside of the engine house on North Capitol street. The enhouse was thrown open to the public and a throng of people inspected the many modern appliances for fighting the fire fiend, as well as the commodious and handsome quarters for the accommodation of members of the fire company. The style employed in the engine house, both the exterior architecture and the interior plan of the building, mark a new era in the con-struction of engine houses—beauty of de-sign, the finest facilities for the work to be done and solid comfort for the members of the company being provided.

"Hail Columbia" Opens Proceedings The stirring strains of "Hall Columbia" by the band opened the proceedings of the evening. On the platform were seated Chief Parris of the fire department; Wm. G. Henderson, president of the North Capitol and Eckington Citizens' Assoclation; H. E. Williams, chairman of the association's committee on fire and police protection; Rev. Dr. Duncan, pastor of the Eckington Presbyterian Church, besides other prominent citizens.

Mr. Williams opened the ceremonies by congratulating the people of that section of the city upon having secured the con-struction in their midst of the handsome engine house, and said that the work of getting it had, to a considerable measure, been done by the citizens' association rep-resenting that neighborhood. The eightroom public school building shortly to be erected within a square of the engine house, he said, was directly the outcome of the efforts of the association to provide that section of the city with the best im-provements of every kind. He spoke of the bravery shown by the members of the fire department whenever occasion called them out, and said the people in that neighborhood had determined to present company No. 12 with a set of colors to float ever

The Presentation Speech.

Mr. Williams then introduced President Wm. G. Henderson of the association, who made the presentation speech, formally turning over the flags to the company through Chief Parris. Mr. Henderson said the day was a fitting one on which to make a presentation to brave men. Being commemorative of the heroes of the revolution, it was appropriate to select it as a time to present a set of colors to the brave men who stood ready to risk their lives in saving life and property. In fitting words he further complimented the members of the fire department, and as he passed over some of the colors to Chief Parris, the largest flag of the set was hoisted over the engine house amid cheers.

"Three cheers for Old Glory!" shouted some one in the gathering, and the cheers were given with energy. Chief Parris said he was more accus-tomed to extinguishing fires than to maks, but he accepte behalf of the new company with appropri

Rev. Dr. Duncan was then introduced, and made an address that called forth the patriotic sentiments of the gathering. The colors of the flag, he said, were emblematic of patriotism, truth and purity, and the clustering of stars typified the unity of the nation, which had grown from thirteen to forty-five states. He was frequently inter-rupted by applause, and concluded his re-marks with the cheers of the multitude ringing in his ears.

Gave an Exhibition.

Chief Parris then ordered an exhibition by the engine company, and great efficiency was shown in the handling of the appara-The great pressure in the water mains in that part of the city permitted the throwing of 450 gallons of water per minute, and streams were cast up and down the street, to the terror of ladies and children at times, as the hose veered about

At the conclusion of this exhibition a display of fireworks, provided by subscription of the citizens in the neighborhood, was given, under charge of Mr. Bernard Waters. The arrangements for the ceremonies last evening were made by a committee of the association, composed of T. P. Kane, Bernard Waters, A. O. Tingley and T. F.

Christian Endeavor.

The meeting of the executive committee of the District of Columbia Christian Endeavor Union, held last evening at Calvary Baptist Church, was not so largely attended as usual, owing to the absence from the city of many members.

Judge Anson S. Taylor, first vice president of the union, presided, and the meeting was opened with a song service. A telegram, dated Salt Lake, was then read, as follows: "Christian greetings to the executive committee. Read Psalm 148. Judge Taylor then read Psalm 148 and

The meeting voted to send the following telegram to the delegation of local Endeavorers, now on their way to San Francisco to attend the sixteenth international control of the state of the sta vention. "Union sends loving greetings to delegation, wishing them God speed." The telegram will overtake the delegation, on telegram will-overtake the delegation, on their journey, at Reno, Nevada, this morn-ing, where the party stop for breakfast. A message of greeting to the convention was also ordered sent, the message to be addressed to General Secretary John Wil-lis Baer, and to read as follows: "District of Columbia Endeavorers send hearty Christian greetings to the Sen

The latter part of the meeting was spent in prayer for the San Francisco convention, and for the hosts of Endeavorers now en route to the convention city. The meeting closed with the singing of the favorite convention hymn, "There is Sunshine in My Soul," and "America."

The vestry of the church was tastily decorated with American flags in honor of the day. Judge Taylor stated that he expected

COLUMBIA THEATER.-That very old friend, "A Scrap of Paper," and a charm-ing new acquaintance, Miss Alberta Gallatin, joined their efforts to entertain the audience at the Columbia Theater last night. "A Scrap of Paper" is one of the omedies which everybody is supposed to have seen at some time or another; but to take it for granted that everybody has seen t well acted is a different matter-and in that respect the stock company offers inducements that are out of the ordinary. The performance had an advantage over most of its predecessors in the fact that the material upon which the actors are employed is thoroughly seasoned. And, charming as the sprightly farces have been, the substantial interest which the story of this comedy-classic presents proved a welthis comedy-classic presents proved a wel-come variation. The piece gave to Mr. Ingersoll a chance to impress his abilities uch as he has not previously enjoyed durng this engagement, and he used his opportunity with marked effect. The Columbia Stock Company has set a high standard, and it was gratifying to see that Mr. Ingersolt and Miss Gallatin are qualified to do their shares toward mantaining it. The play has been handicapped in its more reent professional exploitations by a comcent professional exploitations by a com-bination of mediocrity on the stage and un-due acquisitiveness in the box office. Not-withstanding the prejudice against the phrase which advertisers in other fields have industriously created, it is proper to state that in this case the public gets "something just as good for less money." KERNAN'S LYCEUM THEATER.-The last week of the season at Kernan's Lyceum Theater was opened last night by the Colored Sports' City Show, which prethe Colored Sports' City Show, which presented a performance that pleased the lower portion of the large house and delighted beyond measure the occupants of the sky parlor. In fact the galleries were a part of the show, and drew as much attention from the occupants of seats on the lower floor as did the show on the stage. "The Colored Sports' Reception," a rather pleasing burlesque, opened the performance, and gave Alf Weather and Billy Jackson some excellent opportunities for Jackson some excellent opportunities for distinguishing themselves, the former in dancing and the latter in his own peculiar line of comedy. Bethel and Jones, a regu-lation negro team, was the first feature in the olio, in place of the Freeman Sisters, who were ill. Zoe Ball, serio-comic, followed, with some pleasing and catchy songs, and Harry Eaton and Alf Weather put up a dancing turn that was a feature. The Bartons, in some exceptionally good work, and Billy Jackson, in a couple of work, and Billy Jackson, in a couple of efforts that were funny, and some more that were not, led up to the event of the evening—a cake walk. The contestants in this feature were all above the average, but Bethel and Jones outshone their rivals and carried off the honors.

THE CINEMATOGRAPHE.-A regular holiday audience was in attendance upon the exhibitions of the Cinematographe at Willard Hall yesterday, and all three of the performances of the shadow actors and actresses and scenery were patronized by a crowd that the hot weather could not keep away. The Cinematographe is one of the most advanced instruments for the showing of moving photographs, and its achievements are familiar to nearly all of Washington's amusement-seekers. The pictures shown include all of the old views that made a hit when the machine was exhibited here early in the season, as well as some new ones that do not fall to excite the admiration they were scheduled to receive. One of the features of the Cinematographe display is the showing of view backward, or running the films be fore the light in the opposite direction from that in which they were meant to go. The effect is ludicrous in the extreme and cannot be described. In fact, judging from the applause each picture that is shown this way receives it would be a stroke of policy to run all the pictures in this man-

ROW IN FREEMAN'S ALLEY.

Crap Game, a Stabbing Affray and Fourteen Arrests. There was an old-time Fourth of July row in Freeman's alley yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock, and John Wallace was badly cut and came near being killed. A game of crap and a quarrel about 20 cents caused the trouble. Joe Anderson, who it is charged did the a arrested by Policeman McDonald, Harry Wallace, brother of the injured man, was also arrested because, it was charged, he drew a pistol and made an effort to shoot

Anderson. For a few minutes a scene of the wildest excitement was witnessed by a few dis-interested spectators, who had gone into interested spectators, who had gone into the alley when they heard the row. The men, women and children living in the al-ley, to the number of about twenty, were soon mixed up in the affair, and bricks, tin pans and clubs were flying in the air. Policeman McDonald entered the alley about this time and placed two of the parts about this time and placed two of the prin-cipals under arrest. Wallace had been stabbed in the side, and while he lost constabled in the side, and while he lost considerable blood and was rather weak here was no apparent danger of death. He was taken to the Emergency Hospital, where his wounds were dressed.

The officer learned that Frank Black and Anderson and Wallace were engaged in a game, and Anderson had a 20-cent bet placed. Out of this grew the disturbance.

When Anderson had been locked up the officer returned to the alley with the members of the reserve and arrested thirteen men and women and locked them up. To-morrow the case will be heard in the Police Court, and Judge Kimball will determine as to the guilty ones.

BROOKLAND'S PROGRAM.

Patriotic Observance of the Nation's Birthday in That Suburb.

Brookland celebrated Independence day yesterday as patriotically as did any other city in the Union There was no public display, as has been formerly, on the site of old Fort Bunker Hill, but the residents made ample noise and show.

All day long the grove adjoining the nome of Mr. J. B. Lord, sr., was thronged with young and old, the occasion being the annual Fourth of July picnic of the Queenstown Baptist Church. Various amusements were arranged for the children, and in the afternoon refreshments were served by the ladies of the church. The trees were decorated with flags, and at night there was a display of fireworks. But one accident of any serious nature happened and that was the burning of Robt. Sanders about the face and hands by the explosion of powder. Another accident occurred yesterday to a Brookland resident, but it was not due to the celebration. Mr. Thomas Moore while riding through the Soldiers' Home grounds was thrown from his wheel and had his nose broken. He also received some cuts and bruises about the head and

Resisted Arrest.

Turner Whitney is a colored man. He is the possessor of a disposition that could hardly be called springlike and mild. Accosting Policeman Sweet yesterday, Turner demanded that the guardian of the peace place under arrest the wife and daughter of Turner. Just cause being noticeably lacking, compliance with the demand was not forthcoming, and Turner thereupon expressed his opinion of the police force in general, and Policeman Sweet in particular. in tones loud and penetrating and in words indecent and profane. It is hardly neces-sary to say that Turner, not his wife and daughter, was made a prisoner. For half an hour thereafter matters were

For half an hour thereafter matters were very interesting for the policeman. Turner kicked and scratched and bit and fought, and when he was finally landed at the station house, Sweet was a subject for hospital treatment.

"I didn't do a thing," declared Turner, when arraigned today before Judge Kimball in the Police Court.

"No, I suppose not," remarked the court.

"Nevertheless, unless you pay a fine of 110 you will serve three months in the workhouse."

Turner will be deprived of his liberty for ninety days, minus a percentage for good Show Rooms, 1307 F St. pehavior.

EXCURSIONS.

The pyrotechnic display at River View last night was becught to rather an abrupt end by a spark getting among the rockets and candles that were being fired off from the top of the chute, and setting them off. For about two minutes Capt. Randall and those who were engaged in shooting the fireworks had an interesting time dodging the sying rockets and Roman candle balls, but, fortunately, all succeeded in doing se, and no one was hurt. A few bucketsful of water extinguished what fire there was left, and no damage was done the chate. Those who were on the grounds say that the exhibition, though involuntary, was a beautiful one, and far surpassed all pyrotechnic exhibitions of former years. When it came to celebrating the Fourth of July the poor little parentless tenants of the various city orphan asylums had nearly as much fun as the more fortunate children, who have papas and mammas At St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum, on H street, the boys were supplied with an abundance of firecrackers and torpedoes to make the day noisy and pyrotechnics to make the night pretty through the generosity of Mr. William Galt, and after the evening display were treated to an ice cream feast. The boys and girls at the Washington

City Orphan Asylum were as patriotic as plentiful supplies of firecrackers could make them, and as it was visiting day they enjoyed their celebration with their friends. There was a musical entertain-ment; a fireworks display, and an ice cream interview in the evening.

Not less fortunate were the children at the St. John's Church orphanage. They shot firecrackers all day and in the ever

FINEST IN THE CITY. Chinatown's Display of Fireworks in

"Chinatown" was in its glory last night, and the celestials had far more enjoyment than they had experienced since they cel ebrated the Chinese new year. Hundreds of dollars' worth of fireworks were exploded, and the display was no doubt the finest in the city. All day long the celestials spent their time selling their stock to their American friends, and after dark they began enjoying themselves. They exploded everything they had in the line of fireworks, from the cheap article to the most costly set pieces, and concluded the day's event by burning a string of several thousand of the most noisy.
